

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

Lecturer, University of Illinois at Chicago

Part-time and full-time, beginning August 16, 2019

The School of Theatre & Music at the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) seeks applicants with strong teaching skills for part-time and full-time music faculty positions in the areas of percussion, choral studies, or Latin American music, to begin August 2019.

Responsibilities include teaching core and/or general education music courses, and collaborating with other faculty in advancing the School's mission to develop practical knowledge, cultural sensitivity, intellectual resourcefulness, and imaginative daring in emerging artists and scholars. All full-time faculty are expected to serve on committees and assist in student advising and recruitment.

Minimum qualifications include a master's degree in music; proven excellence within their specialized field (based on performances, recordings, and publications); a minimum of two years professional experience and teaching in the field with students and faculty from diverse backgrounds. Preferred qualifications include experience teaching at the university level; and a record of successful student recruitment.

Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications.

UIC is a Carnegie Research 1 university that enrolls over 30,000 students on a 240-acre site one mile west of Chicago's Loop.
